TUM & Co.

Dear Doctoral Candidates,

We hope you are doing well and look forward to a great summer in Munich. ☺

With today's newsletter, we would like to encourage you to check out our Transferable Skills Training for the ongoing Summer Semester 2022. There are still plenty of course offerings before the summer break and we look forward to your participation. We also invite you to register for our special Transferable Skills Training newsletter.

Matching the German Diversity Day on May 31, the TUM Graduate Council recommends to include pronouns in your e-mail signature as an easy way to create a positive impact. Check out their Position Paper on Diversity and Internationalization to learn more about the topic.

Our international section is all about the upcoming TUM Global Week 2022. In our Zoom discussion, "Doing your research in Germany - a failsafe option?" on July 1 from 11:30 a.m. – 1 p.m., our panelists will share valuable insights, experiences and orientation for young researchers. Feel free to join us and check out the full program on the Global & Alumni website.

Additionally, we compiled many interesting events and calls for application in our section TUM & Co., for example the TUM Entrepreneurship Day or the TUM IdeAward.

We wish you all a pleasant day!

Stay safe and healthy!

Transferable Skills Training – Do you know what it's about?

Have you ever participated in one of our Transferable Skills courses? Or do you even know what those are about? ☺

Mastering a doctorate requires not only hard scientific work, but also particularly good time- and self-management as well as organizational skills. Our Doctorate-oriented program, offering courses in the areas of Personality & Self-Management, Communication & Methodological Competence, and Leadership & Responsibility, is especially designed to fit the needs of doctoral candidates concerning content, requirements, and purpose of a doctorate.

Doctorate-oriented Program	Career-oriented Program
Personality & Self-Management	Science & Research
Communication & Methodological Competence	Entrepreneurship & Startups
Leadership & Responsibility	Business & Industry

On the other hand, you perhaps wonder which professional path would suit you best: “Will I stay in science and research? Should I found my own startup? Is there a market for my product?” Our Career-oriented program will provide you with support for decision-making as well as further develop your competencies to increase the market value of your research results. Different courses are offered in the areas of Science & Research, Entrepreneurship & Startups, and Business & Industry.

We invite all of you to participate and take advantage of this great opportunity and expand your professional and academic profile. You don't want to miss any interesting insights, special events or available spots in our course program? Then subscribe to our Transferable Skills Training Newsletter! See you in our next course!

Graduate Council

Make diversity visible

Within the framework of the European Diversity Month last May, the Graduate Council invites you to use pronouns in your e-mail signature, and even on the staff website. Why is this useful? If everyone includes pronouns, it makes it easier to correctly address people with non-standard names, names from diverse language backgrounds, or gender diverse people. Overall, it is a quick and easy way to create a positive impact and welcome diversity into the TUM Family. Do you want to know more? Check the Graduate Council's Position Paper on Diversity and Internationalization.

Join our Panel Discussion “Doing research in Germany – a failsafe option?”

“Doing your research in Germany - a failsafe option?” In our panel discussion on July 1, 11:30 a.m. – 1 p.m. during the TUM Global Week, we talk with international TUM researchers and staff about why they chose Germany for their career, as well as the benefits and pitfalls of the German research environment.

For decades, Germany is a top destination for students and researchers from around the globe. However, to be successful in German academia also requires a certain mindset, skills and persistence. Our panelists will not only share their personal stories why they chose Germany and TUM, but also discuss the benefits and challenges of working with researchers from different cultural backgrounds.
