Where?
Exzellenzzentrum Garching
Boltzmannstr. 17
85748 Garching
Room 101

When?
Thursday, 22 March to Friday, 23 March 2018
9:00 - 17:00

How to register?
For registration and information, please contact Mr. Christoph Steber
By e-mail: c.steber@tum.de
By phone: +49.89.289.10611

TUM Graduate School
E-mail: contact@gs.tum.de
Phone: +49.89.289.10600
Visit our website: www.gs.tum.de
Social Media:
www.facebook.com/tumgs
www.twitter.com/tumgs

TUM Graduate School | Technische Universität München
Boltzmannstraße 17 | 85748 Garching | Germany
Phone: +49.89.289.10600 | www.gs.tum.de
Dear colleagues,

As doctoral supervisors, we accompany young researchers on their way to academic independence - one of the most rewarding experiences in our profession, but also one of the most challenging tasks.

TUM's course for doctoral supervisors offers you the opportunity to get insights into the latest international developments in research supervision and talent management of young researchers. The course will be a mixture of presentations and discussions with a strong focus on the exchange of experiences among peers.

We hope you will enjoy the course, and we are looking forward to receiving your feedback.

Yours sincerely,

Prof. Hans-Joachim Bungartz
TUM Graduate Dean

Day 1, 22.03.2018

- International developments in research supervision
- Phases, measures and objectives in the PhD phase
- Working and supervising with a Supervisory Biography
- Transparency and awareness in the supervisory relationship - the importance of clarifying expectations and roles

Day 2, 23.03.2018

- Selection of doctoral candidates
- Working with supervisory tools
- When the PhD project is going to fail: Warning signs and possible solutions
- Detecting and solving problems in research supervision
- Peer group coaching for supervisors: presenting and discussing cases - exchange of experiences

Welcome Address

Workshop Contents

Trainer

PD Dr. Helmut Brentel

Helmut Brentel is a scholar, researcher, and supervisor in the areas of sociology of organizations, organizational learning and change, environmental sociology and social philosophy at the Goethe University Frankfurt am Main.

His professional focus is on the development of higher education, the establishment and evaluation of doctoral schools, and the professionalization of supervision training.

His workshops are meant as a training site for a systematic improvement of awareness, of high expertise in the field and of the development of analytical and practical skills for supervisors. The workshops also serve as an international forum for collaboration and exchange, for jointly elaborating and disseminating new concepts and ideas in establishing a productive and supportive supervisory culture.

www.brentel-consulting-and-training.de

Prof. Hans-Joachim Bungartz
TUM Graduate Dean